INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTSSOUTH AUSTRALIA1961-62

This bulletin is the first published by this Bureau on Industrial Accidents in South Australia and covers the first year in which the basic information has been obtained. Thus the collection is still in a formative stage and some improvement in the statistics may be possible when further developmental work is done. However, many problems have already been resolved and the figures here presented may be regarded as providing a reliable general guide within the broad classifications shown in the tables.

SCOPE AND COVERAGE

The statistics contained in this bulletin have been compiled from reports of Workers' Compensation claims closed during the year ended 30th June 1962 and of unclosed claims of three years' duration at 30th June 1962 submitted by Insurance Companies, self-insurers, and State Government Departments, through the State Department of Labour and Industry.

Only persons within the coverage of the South Australian Workers' Compensation Act are included. Notable exclusions are self-employed persons, employees receiving wages and salaries exceeding an average of £45 per week, and all Commonwealth Government officers and employees. Thus some industry classifications (e.g. Defence Services and Communications) are not covered at all while coverage is reduced in other industries, particularly in Retail Trade and rural industries. Fishing industry coverage is reduced by exclusion of self-employed persons and crew members remunerated by share of proceeds.

DEFINITIONS

INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT: For the purpose of this collection the following definition has been applied: "An Industrial Accident is a compensated work injury causing death, permanent disability, or absence of the injured person from work for seven days or more, excluding journey cases, cases occurring during a recess period, and disease cases."

Note: "Seven days" has been interpreted as "one week of seven calendar days or five working days".

INDUSTRY: The 1961 Census classification of Industries has been used.

ACCIDENT FACTOR: In general, an accident factor may be regarded as "That underlying agency, other than human failing, which appears to contribute most materially to an accident and which would be most likely to receive attention in preventing the occurrence of a similar accident".

"Accident Factor" should not be interpreted as "Cause of Accident".

A detailed list of "Accident Factors" is given in Table 7.

GENERAL
COMMENT

These statistics relate to claims closed, or regarded statistically as closed, during the year ended 30th June 1962. A tabulation of accidents by date or year of occurrence might be desirable. However, on the present basis of collection, figures in that form could not be released for at least three years after collection. In any case, investigations indicate that the present statistics provide a reasonable picture of accidents occurring, within the scope of the collection, during the year covered, or in other words these enquiries suggest that claims closed during a year will roughly equal claims lodged during that year.

The following tables are brief summaries of detailed tabulations held in this office. In addition other tabulations have been made which have not been summarised for presentation in this bulletin. Information contained in a classification of accidents by Occupation, and in some of the detailed tables, will be made available on application to this Bureau or to the State Department of Labour and Industry.

No attempt has been made to calculate frequency or severity rates.

Because some figures have been rounded the individual figures may not add to the stated totals.

The Commission on the Status of Women, established in 1946, was the first of its kind. It was created by the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations to promote gender equality and the status of women in society. The Commission's mandate was to study, investigate, and make recommendations on all issues relating to the status of women.

The Commission's work was organized into four main areas: (a) the status of women in the legal field, (b) the status of women in the economic and social fields, (c) the status of women in the political and public life, and (d) the status of women in the cultural and educational fields.

The Commission's first session was held in 1946 in New York City. It was the first time that women from all five permanent members of the United Nations Security Council (the United States, the Soviet Union, the United Kingdom, France, and China) were present. The Commission's work was carried out through a series of sessions, each held in a different country.
